INTRODUCTION.

THE present work has been designed to provide the student with the enlarged edition of Bellows' "French and English Pocket Dictionary," for which he has long been asking. The features of that little book—its originality of arrangement and design, and its general usefulness—have been familiar, for many years, to innumerable travellers on both sides of the Channel and of the Atlantic; owing to its merits, it has in fact come to be regarded much more as the friend and companion of its possessor, than as a dictionary in the ordinary meaning of the word. The present volume is but the logical development of that work—reproducing its leading features, in more extended form, for the benefit of those who stay at home; and aiming to be as useful in the class-room, the office or the library, as its little forerunner has shown itself in the field of travel.

It is not a simple matter, in a book like this, to suit the needs of every reader upon all occasions; neither is it easy, where space is a consideration, to avoid the sacrifice of certain words of secondary value which may yet be full of interest and meaning. In the compilation of these pages, the aim has been to comprise such portions of the French and English languages as will serve for all the ordinary purposes of the life we live to-day; for, as Littré so well puts it in his preface, "l'usage contemporain est le premier et le principal objet d'un dictionnaire." And not only have the ordinary or daily requirements of the general reader been considered, but this dictionary will be found to contain its full share of technical words and combinations, alive, it is believed, with the life that is the joy of the translator, and derived, wherever possible, from the most authoritative sources.

The initiator and inspirer of this work, John Bellows, has not lived to see its publication. But at his death in 1902 he left behind him something of greater value even than the manuscript upon which he loved to labour; for in the memory of his life and work lay just that inspiration to continue to the end, which has so often been the needed mainstay of the reviser. Another name to be remembered with gratitude for good work done in days gone by, is that of the late Professor Alexandre Beljame, whose services—so valuable in the revision of the original edition—were unfortunately not available in the preparation of the present one. Others, however, have taken up the task: and among these the first place must be given to the two good helpers whose names appear upon the title-page. With a practical experience of the art of dictionary-making, and long acquaintance with the needs of language-students, the first of these helpers—Auguste Marrot—has won my best thanks for his long-continued and conscientious aid in the revision of this book. So also has Gustave Friteau—the enthusiastic teacher of our language at the College of Versailles—whose work, he will admit, has been a labour of love from the beginning. To the names of these esteemed co-workers must be added those of my friends MM. Ardouin, Guillemin, Clavrie, and Hébert—compagnons de voyage on the journey from A to Z, who, by expert knowledge of the route, have made that journey easier. My sister Marian Gibbins undertook the responsible and very tedious task of the initial proof-reading, a service for which it is difficult adequately to thank her. Neither is it easy to express my sense of obligation to the un-named and innumerable helpers, whether in France or in this country, who have contributed to the enrichment of these pages.

I cannot close without a grateful reference to the work of the type-setters and printers; and in this connection I would wish especially to acknowledge the faithful services of Edward Holder; to whose share so large a portion of that work has fallen.

NOTE TO THE THIRD EDITION.

I AM indebted to many friends and correspondents on both sides of the Channel for much of the new matter which distinguishes the present (or third) Edition of this dictionary from its predecessors. I especially record with gratitude my obligation to my friend Leopold Cust, whose contributions (especially in the field of technical renderings) have left their permanent mark on the text of the vocabulary. I also deeply appreciate the interest which Professor G. Bonet-Maury, of Paris, has shown in the revision of this work, and the practical help which he has so often given to me. And if I wish further to remind myself of the fact that no individual wisdom is sufficient for a task needing the combined intelligence of many brains, I have only to reflect on the valuable suggestions I have also received from A. J. de Havilland Bushnell, M.A., P. Le Roy, and other esteemed correspondents. To each and all of these I offer my sincere thanks.

"LIAISON." [V. this word in the dictionary.]

One dot (·) marks a terminal as silent, except when the word immediately following begins with a vowel or silent h. In addition to this, two dots (··) mark it as silent [or if an N· that it remains nasal] even when followed by a word beginning with a vowel or silent h.

Example. Chez· given with one dot indicates that the z is silent when followed by a consonant, but forms liaison when followed by a vowel—that is, the z is carried on, so that Chez elle sounds Ché-zelle; but on the other hand, COUP·· given with two dots indicates that the P is silent under all circumstances, so that Un coup à la fois is sounded "Un cou à la fois," and not "Un cou-pa," etc.

The dot, or double dot, followed by an F as an indication of the feminine form [as LIMOUSIN··F] must of course be understood as applying to the masculine only.

PRONUNCIATION.

The pronunciation of words—in the many cases where it is given—is shown by phonetic spelling in italic type, either between brackets immediately after the words themselves, or printed down the left side of the type-columns. The phonetic spelling thus shown after a French word is, of course, intended for the use of the English reader, and vice versa; and although it is not claimed that the exact pronunciation or accentuation of a word can thus be accurately conveyed in every instance, yet the reader will certainly be enabled thereby to pronounce words with a degree of correctness which would be wholly out of his reach without such aid. Vocal teaching in these matters is not always available; and as it makes all the difference to the foreigner who has occasion to use a word, whether he is able to pronounce it so as to be understood, or whether by mispronunciation he renders it impossible for the person to whom he speaks even to guess what he means, the phonetic guidance given in these pages will often prove of value. To take the combination e a in the English words Bean, Bear, Beat, Lead, and Tear, for instance, how can a Frenchman who is beginning to learn the language tell what sound the e a may represent when even an Englishman can by no possibility say on looking at Lead and Tear, whether they rhyme with "dead" and "near," or "deed" and "fair," unless he first ascertains whether they individually stand for Lead (the metal) or Lead (guidance) : or Tear (a rent in a fabric) or Tear, a tear-drop?

On the other hand, it becomes impossible for a Frenchman to mistake in pronouncing either of these words when he finds given along with them, in brackets, the phonetic signs—bïne, bêr, bite, ledd, lide, taire, tîre.

To say that such indications are useless because there are some words to which they cannot be applied is a mistake. Suppose there is one word in twenty of which we cannot picture the sound to a foreigner, owing to some peculiarity such as that of the English short i in "simple," or the nasal n in "thicken," is this any reason why we should not give the pronunciation of the other nineteen words, about which there is not even the shadow of a difficulty beyond that of the class of sounds to which they severally belong?

Even if we go a step further, and take words whose pronunciation can be nearly, but not exactly, given, it is incomparably better to give it nearly than not at all. Thus, the indication that ch in chip is pronounced tch, will not keep a Frenchman from sounding the i too long; but it will keep him from pronouncing the word as "sheep," and thus being unintelligible. The th is proverbially difficult, and its difficulty is increased by its representing two different sounds, as in "thin" and "thine;" yet with the simple assistance given under the heading TH and the corresponding marks of "fort" or "faible" opposite each word, any Frenchman can sound either of these combinations very nearly as it ought to be sounded. Or again, where he is warned that ou in Mould must be pronounced like o: or a in Mate, as ê: or it in mad, or a in alone, as e in te, se: or a in Salt as o in Sort: he will utter either of these words correctly enough.

The sound of the English terminal y (in ably, fully, pity, etc.) is somewhat between the French é and i, but very much nearer the former than the latter: and as the slight exaggeration of é is much less unpleasant than that of i, which has an air of caricature about it, and often raises a smile at the speaker's expense, é has been adopted in this book wherever the sound would admit of its employment.

See also the examples given at the word Liaison in the Dictionary.

PREPOSITIONS IN ITALICS.

Attention is drawn to a footnote throughout the Dictionary to the effect that Prepositions used before nouns and participles are printed in Roman type, and those before verbs in Italic type. This refers to prepositions where they stand alone; for it has not been thought necessary to show the distinction when it is already indicated by a verb accompanying the preposition. Thus, at the verb "Faire œ," to make, to do, etc., there is no necessity for italicizing the to, because the thing is clear per se.

GENDER.

Every feminine word is printed in italics throughout the Dictionary, not only in its alphabetical rank and in each place in which it occurs as a direct rendering, but also in the midst of explanatory sentences, so that, even where its gender is not in question, it shall nevertheless be prominent.

In the case of certain compound words, however, a difficulty has had to be overcome, due to the employment of the space-economizing dash (—) which stands, throughout the dictionary, for the repetition of a leading word. While nothing could be clearer than printing each unit of a compound in its own separate gender where it is given in full (as for instance COUP de MAIN), yet when the first word, which is printed once for all at the head of the article of which it forms the subject, is afterwards only represented by a —, there might be a danger of a beginner being misled if he saw | — de MAIN, from his taking it as a feminine word because the only part of it printed in full (in the word Main) is shown as such. Whenever this has seemed likely to occur, the printing has been made to represent the gender of the WHOLE compound, instead of that of its latter member only : thus—

COUP blow (etc.) — de MAIN sudden dash : bold stroke (etc.)

A glance at the two lines SAUTE de VENT and SAUTE-en-BARQUE will show the force of this : for if, in either of these instances, the first portion had happened to be shown by a dash only, the user of the Dictionary might easily have been misled as to the gender.

'KEY WORDS.

In the great majority of cases the KEY WORDS (i.e., the words between brackets indicating the sense to which the rendering applies) are given in the language of the chief word—French where the chief word is French, and English where the chief word is English. There are, however, a few instances where this rule has been reversed, in order more suitably to convey the sense : as, for instance, in line 27 under the word Faire (Faire sauter.) The BLACK BRACKET cuts off a key word, etc., from matter to which it does not belong, while the light one separates it from a word having reference to it (thus.)

METRIC AND OTHER TABLES.

It is greatly to be hoped that the Metric System of Weights and Measures will before long be officially adopted throughout the British Empire; for it is impossible to calculate the extent to which we handicap ourselves by the continued retention of our own antiquated standards. In the meantime, and pending the introduction of this great reform, we must do the best we can with tables of comparison. At pages 34 to 39 the reader will find a series of such tables compiled to assist him in all his ordinary difficulties, and embodying not only a comparison of the standards of length, weight, and capacity, but those compound equivalents which are often the most difficult to appreciate. The tables have been compiled and checked with every care, and the technical reader or the man of business may accept them as accurate and reliable.

Another feature of this work which will doubtless prove of value to the reader is the table of French and English dates given on page 40. Beginning with the first of the Capet kings of France, and coming down to the present time, it amounts—in brief—to the progress of the two nations through a thousand years of history.

MISPRINTS.

Great care has been bestowed upon the proof-reading of this work : the type-matter has been read and re-read and read again with so much close attention, that it is hoped and believed that serious errors in the printing will prove but rare exceptions. Nevertheless, and in spite of unremitting vigilance, 'errare humanum est'; and the reviser will be glad to be informed of any misprint or typographical defect which may at any time come under the notice of the reader.

[Note.—Among the many standard dictionaries which have been consulted in this revision are those of Littré, Hatzfeld & Darmesteter, and Larousse : and, for English words, the 'Century' Dictionary and the great work of Murray. Of books on special subjects, the assistance of the following (to mention only some) must be acknowledged: Guyot's 'Dictionnaire de Commerce,' 'Les Oiseaux de France,' by d'Hamonville, 'Dictionnaire de Slang,' by Legras, 'L'Argot des Tranchées,' by Sainéan, Coxe's 'Manual of French Law,' and Nares on 'Seamanship.]

CONJUGATION OF FRENCH VERBS.

REGULAR VERBS.

First Conjugation. Verbs ending in ...	ER , as	PARLER	... Table 1.
Second " " "	IR , "	FINIR	... " 2.
Third " " "	OIR , "	RECEVOIR	... " 3.
Fourth " " "	RE , "	VENDRE	... " 4.

Verbs ending in GER, as diriger, in order to preserve the soft sound of the g. retain the E of the infinitive before A and O, as nous dirigeons.

Those ending in CER, as renoncer, in order to preserve the soft c, take a cedilla before A and O, as nous renouçons.

Those ending in UER, as joûer, take a dieresis in ions and iez, present subjunctive and imperfect indicative, as nous jouïons.

Those ending in IER, as crier, retain both the i's in the first and second person plural of the present subjunctive, and imperfect indicative, as que nous criions.

Those that have an unaccented E in the syllable preceding ER, as in mener, take a GRAVE ACCENT on the E when followed in the next syllable by E mute, as je mène.

Excepting acheter, peler, geler, etc., which take the grave accent. those ending in ELER, ETER, as atteler, jeter, double the consonant before E mute, as fatte lle, il jette.

Those which have E accented in the syllable preceding ER, as céder, change the acute to a grave before E mute, as je cède : je protège, except in the future and conditional, as je céderai : and verbs in ÉER, which retain the acute.

Those ending in YER, as payer, sometimes change Y into I before E mute. in third person singular only, as je paie, but il paie or il paie.

IRREGULAR VERBS.

Auxiliary Verb, AVOIR ... Table 5. | Substantive Verb, ÊTRE ... Table 6.

As the IRREGULARITIES frequently occur only in some of the persons or some of the tenses, while the rest are regular, the irregularities are distinguished by being printed in heavy type.

FOR CONVENIENCE OF REFERENCE

a complete list of the French irregular and defective verbs is given opposite, with the numbers of the tables (see pages 8 to 25) at which their conjugations will be found. In their rank in the Dictionary itself, such verbs can always be quickly identified, from the fact that they likewise bear a reference to the said tables: thus, "Pouvoir v. (Table 33)," and so on.

76. Correspondence of Tenses of the SUBJUNCTIVE with the INDICATIVE.

1st Rule.—The PRESENT and PERFECT of the Subjunctive generally correspond with PRESENT and BOTH FUTURES of the Indicative; the PERFECT to express a present or future action, the PERFECT to express a past action:

PRESENT.

Je veux que tu sortes. Je doute que mon ami ait réussi.
Il faudra que je parte. Il faudra qu'il ait pris de grands soins avant de réussir.
J'aurai exigé qu'il paie.

Exception.—IMPERFECT and PLUPERFECT of the Subjunctive are used instead of the PRESENT and PERFECT when there is some condition expressed or implied.

Je crains qu'il ne s'ennuyât s'il était seul.
Je doute que votre ami eût réussi sans vos bons offices.

IMPERFECT

Il fallait qu'on l'avertît.

Je voulais, j'ai voulu qu'il sortît.
J'avais désiré, je désirerais, j'eusse désiré qu'il terminât son travail.

PLUPERFECT.

Je ne savais pas que vous eussiez été indisposé.
J'ai souhaité, j'avais souhaité qu'ils fussent venus.
J'exigerais, j'aurais exigé qu'ils eussent signé.

In ORDINARY CONVERSATION.

the French use the PRESENT of the IMPERFECT, for the IMPERFECT, Instead of saying "Je désirerais que vous alliez," (which sounds harsh and pedantic) they say "Je désinerais que vous alliez."

77. CONJUGATING NEGATIVELY.

Ne pas parler, Not to speak.—Ne parlant pas, Not speaking.—Pas parlé, Not spoken.—N'avoir pas parlé, Not to have spoken.—N'ayant pas parlé, Not having spoken.

		[dans la conversation on dit.]
Je NE parle PAS, I do not speak , ou, I am not speaking	I don't , pour I do not
Que je NE parle PAS, that I may not speak	I mayn't , " I may not
Je NE parlais PAS, I did not speak , ou, I was not speaking	I didn't , " I did not
Je NE parlerai PAS, I shall not speak , ou, I will not speak	I shan't , " I shall not
Je N'ai PAS parlé, I have not spoken	I haven't , " I have not
Je N'avais PAS parlé, I had not spoken	I hadn't , " I had not
Je N'aurais PAS parlé, I should not have spoken	I won't , " I will not
Je NE parle GUÈRE, I scarcely ever speak. —Je NE parle JAMAIS, I never speak.	I shouldn't , " I should not
Je NE parle PLUS, I no longer speak. —Je NE parle POINT, I do not speak at all. [V. foll. note.]

[The difference between PAS and POINT is that PAS is a less emphatic negative (and is much more frequently used) than POINT: thus, Il ne fume pas, He is not smoking; Il ne fume point, He does not smoke at all, i.e. he never smokes. Je n'en ai pas, I haven't any; Je n'en ai point, I have none whatever. Use Pas and not Point before Plus, Moins, Si, Aussi, Autant: Berlin n'est pas aussi grand que Paris, etc.]

Pas and Point may be suppressed after the verbs Cesser, to cease; Oser, to dare; and Pouvoir, to be able: thus, Je n'ose le faire, I dare not do it; Je ne puis me taire, I cannot be silent. Pas is omitted after Savoir, to know, when uncertainty is expressed: Il ne sait ce qu'il dit, He doesn't know what he is saying. But where no doubt exists Savoir takes Pas: Je ne sais pas le français, I do not know French.]

Le verbe auxiliaire TO BE [Être] ne prend pas DO ou DID. Négativement on dit:—I am not, Je ne suis pas; Thou art not, etc. A très peu d'exceptions près, TO HAVE [Avoir] se comporte de même: I have not, etc.

INTERROGATIVELY.

Parlé-je? Do I speak? ou, Am I speaking?—Parlais-je? Did I speak? ou, Was I speaking?
 Parle-t-il? Does he speak? ou, Is he speaking?—Parlait-il? Did he speak? ou, Was he speaking?
 Parlerai-je? Shall I speak?—Aurai-je parlé? Shall I have spoken?
 Parlera-t-il? Will he speak?—Aura-t-il parlé? Will he have spoken?
 Parlerait-il? Would he speak?—Aurait-il parlé? Would he have spoken?

[In many instances the question may be put with "Est-ce que," as, Est-ce que j'offre ...? Do I offer ...? etc. "Est-ce que" must always be used with verbs which make the first person of the Indicative in one syllable, for the sake of harmony of sound, as, Est-ce que je dors? etc.]

Les verbes auxiliaires TO BE et TO HAVE font leur conjugaison interrogative comme en français, en modifiant la place du pronom: Am I? Have I? Shall I have? etc.

NEGATIVELY AND INTERROGATIVELY.

		[style familier]
NE parlé-je PAS? Do I not speak? ou, Am I not speaking?	Don't I speak?
NE parle-t-il PAS? Does he not speak? ou, Is he not speaking?	Doesn't he speak?
NE parlais-je PAS? Did I not speak? ou, Was I not speaking?	Didn't I speak?
NE parlait-il PAS? Did he not speak? etc.
N'ai-je PAS parlé? Have I not spoken? —N'aurai-je PAS parlé? Shall I not have spoken?

78. CONJUGATION OF A PASSIVE VERB

with the Substantive Verb (Table 6), is nearly the same in both languages, except the variation of the past participle in French, the rule for which is given on page 30.

[En anglais le participe est invariable]

Je suis aimé, ... [Feminine, aimée] I am loved
 Nous serons aimés, [" aimées] We shall be loved, etc., etc.

P. PARTICIPLES conjugated with ÊTRE in French. TO HAVE in English.

Je suis ACCOURU, I have run up (to)	Je suis PARTI, I have gone, set out
" ALLÉ, " gone	" PARVENU, " succeeded, reached
" ARRIVÉ, " arrived	" RESTÉ, " remained

Je suis NÉ, [fem. NÉE] I WAS born.
 Il est MORT l'année dernière. He DIED last year.

CONJUGATION OF REFLECTIVE VERBS. 79.

NOTE.—In French, reflexive verbs are conjugated with ÊTRE.

En anglais, les verbes réfléchis se conjuguent avec TO HAVE.

Se blesser, to hurt one's self.—Se blessant, hurting one's self.—Blessé, hurt.
s'Être blessé, to have hurt one's self.—s'Êtant blessé, having hurt one's self.

A participle accompanied by AVOIR never agrees with its subject, and only with its direct object when that object precedes the participle. [V. examples on p. 30.]

When a neuter verb is followed by the preposition DE, the pronoun used as its complement is EN, "of it: some: any." [This EN is the Latin INDE (thence, hereupon, etc.)

When a noun is preceded by de, du, de la, des, or the indefinite article, its complementary pronoun is EN.

Parlait-il de l'Exposition? ...	Was he speaking of the Exhibition?
Il EN parlait	He was [speaking of it, sous-entendu]
	[ou, "Did he speak of," etc.? "He did."]

Avez-vous acheté des pommes ? ...	Have you bought any apples?
Nous EN avons acheté	We have [bought some, sous-entendu]

When the noun is preceded by à, the pronoun must be Y, "there: here: at: to: to it." [This Y is the Latin IBI (there.) By loss of the medial consonant it became i, and then Y.]

A-t-elle été à l'Exposition? ...	Has she been to the Exhibition?
Oui, elle Y a été	She has [Yes, she has been to it.]

Allons à Rouen: un de nos amis	Let us go to Rouen: a friend invites us there [ou
nous invite à Y aller	dit mieux, "has invited us there"]

When a verb is followed by any other preposition than those above mentioned (de, à, etc.) the pronouns which serve as its complement are—moi, me: toi, thee: lui, him [or it]: elle, her [or it]: nous, us: vous, you: eux, [fem. elles] them. These are placed in the same order in the sentence both in the French and English—Devant lui, Before him: Après elles, [or eux] After them.

GENDER OF NOUNS.

An important feature of this dictionary is its method of distinguishing the genders of nouns and adjectives by different types, the more readily to strike the eye, and therefore the more deeply to impress the memory.

At the same time it is a fair general clue to the gender of words derived from the Latin and Greek to know that nouns which are feminine in Latin are feminine in French also, and words which are masculine or neuter in Latin, as well as most words directly derived from the Greek, are MASCULINE in French. There are exceptions: but to be fully master of these, the student should examine the reasons for them, which are very interesting, and for which he should consult some of the works specially devoted to this subject.

Of the French nouns which end in a consonant or other vowel than e mute, over 6,000 are masculine. About 3,000 are feminine, nearly all of which end in -ion or -té.

Of the nouns ending in e mute, over 6,000 are feminine, and about 2,500 masculine; of these latter, nearly 1,000 end in -age or -sine.

FORMATION OF FEMININE.

- (1) If an adjective does not end in E mute, the feminine is formed by adding one, thus:—
Grand, grande; joli, jolie; except those comprised in the following rules:
- (2) Substantives and adjectives ending in EUR form their feminine in EUSE, if they are derived from the present participle of a verb: Dans-ant-eur-euse, &c.
(12 exceptions.)
- (3) Substantives and adjectives not formed from the pres. part. of a verb (as in the second rule) change TEUR into TRICE:
Acteur-trice Accusateur-trice, &c.
- (4) Substantives and adjectives in EUR, expressing an idea of comparison or superiority, form their feminine regularly by the addition of an E mute:
Antérieur-e | Inférieur-e | Supérieur-e | Meilleur-e, &c.
- (5) Substantives and adjectives in EAU have their feminine ending in ELLE:
Un jeuneau. Une jeunecelle | Beau, belle | Nouveau, nouvelle
- (6) Substantives or adjectives ending in EIL, EL, EN, ET, IEN, or ON, double the final consonant and add an E mute:
Pareil-lle | Criminel-lle | Ancien-ne | Sujet-tte | Chrétien-ne | Fripon-ne
- (7) Substantives and adj. in E mute undergo no change (except Traître, traïtesse, etc.):
Un or me camarade | Un or me domestique | Aimable, célèbre, facile, sage, &c.
- (8) Adjectives ending in F change this letter into VE:
Bref, brève | Captif, captive | Veuf, veuve, &c.
- (9) Adjectives ending in X change X into SE:
Cru-x, croïse | Jaloux, jalouse | Heureux, heureuse, &c.

The following are EXCEPTIONS:

Nouns expressing professions followed by men have often no feminine, even when exercised by women: as, Peintre, Poète, Professeur, Amateur, etc.

Many names of animals have different words for the masculine and the feminine: as, Cheval, juvent; Bœuf, vache; Taureau, génisse, etc.

- [A] The ADJECTIVE in French must agree both in gender and number, with the noun or pronoun it describes or qualifies: so that, while invariable in English, it has four forms in French.

Un bon garçon, Une bonne fille, De bons garçons, De bonnes filles,
A good boy, A good girl, Good boys, Good girls.

[V. Demi, Feu, Grand, and Nu, in the Dictionary.]

NUMERICAL ADJECTIVES (except Un-e: Premier -ième: Second -e) have the same form for both genders.

- [B] When one adjective applies to two or more nouns, it must be in the plural: and if any one of such nouns be masculine, the adjective must be masculine. It is well in such cases to place the masculine substantive last in the series, although not always essential.

L'eau et le vin sont bon S. | La cour et le jardin sont grand S.

Comparative and Superlative of Adjectives.

- [C] En anglais le comparatif se forme, pour les mots d'UNE SYLLABE, en ajoutant ...ER ou ...R comme terminaison.

A bright light: a brighter light. | A rare thing: a rarer thing.

Le superlatif, en ajoutant ...EST ou ...ST.

The brightest, rarest, sweetest, longest, shortest, etc.

Pour les mots de deux syllabes, on plus, en mettant devant le positif l'adverbe MORE, MOST, etc.

A brilliant light: a more brilliant light: the most brilliant light.

Pour marquer les degrés d'infériorité on dit 'not so ... as' ou (mais cette forme est beaucoup moins usitée) 'less ... than.'

A light not so bright as the other: It is not so rare, ou, It is less rare.

- [D] The French makes the comparative with the adverb PLUS to mark superiority (une lumière plus brillante) MOINS to show inferiority (une chose moins rare) AUSSI ... to indicate equality (une lumière aussi brillante que l'autre: a light as brilliant as the other.)

Plus and moins, followed by a number, require DE instead of QUE.

Plus de vingt, moins de trente: more than 20, less than 30.

The FRENCH SUPERLATIVE is formed by placing the definite article before the adverb: la plus brillante lumière (or, la lumière la plus brillante.)

- [E] IRREGULAR COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES.

Bon.	meilleur.	le meilleur.	Good.	better.	best.
Beaucoup.	plus.	le plus.	Much.	more.	most.
Petit.	moindre.	le moindre.	Little.	less.	least.
	or, plus petit.	le plus petit.		or, smaller.	smallest.
Mauvais.	pire.	le pire.	Bad.	worse.	worst.
	or, plus mauvais.	le plus mauvais.

Position of Adjective before or after the Noun.

- [F] No hard and fast rule can be laid down for this: but subject to exceptions which custom and taste alone decide, it comes AFTER the noun in the following cases.

- [G] Adjectives that can be used alone as names of persons or of things, such as l'ambitieux, l'aveugle, le riche, etc. Un caractère ambitieux, un pays riche, etc.

- [H] Participles employed as adjectives: aimant, satisfaisant, décidé, instruit etc.

Un être aimant: des raisons satisfaisantes: un caractère décidé, etc.

- [I] Geographical adjectives (L'empire romain: la mode anglaise), and those denoting colour or matter, taste or form: such as.

Rouge, jaune: aérien, sulfureux: acide, amer: rond, carré.

- [K] Where the adjective can be placed either before or after the noun, it gives either a different degree of force to the meaning or a totally different sense:

Une maison magnifique, is 'a beautiful [or splendid] house': Une magnifique maison, is 'a splendid [or magnificent] house,' with a very strong accent on, and deliberate pronunciation of the word splendid [or magnificent.]

Un grand homme.	A great man.	Un petit homme.	A little man.
Un homme grand.	A tall man.	Un homme petit.	A mean man.
Un bon homme.	A simple man.	Une honnête femme.	An honest woman
Un homme bon.	A kind man.	Une femme honnête.	A polite woman.
Un brave homme.	A good sort of man.	Une grosse femme.	A fat (or stout) woman.
Un homme brave.	A brave man.
De nouveaux livres.	Other books.	Une femme grosse.	A pregnant woman.
Des livres nouveaux.	New books.	Une femme sage.	A prudent woman.
Un pauvre homme.	A poor silly man.	Une sage-femme.	A midwife.
Un homme pauvre.	A poor man.		etc., etc.

The ADVERB is invariable.

As in English it is formed by adding ...LY to the adjective, so, as a general rule, it is formed in French by adding ...MENT to the feminine form of the adjective :

Ex. Doux. Douce : adverb. Doucement.
Actif, Active : " Activement.

When the adjective ends in ANT (fem. ANTE) the adverb makes ...AMMENT :

Ex. Courant. Courante : adverb. Couramment.

When the adjective ends in ENT, ENTE, the adverb makes ...EMMENT :

Ex. Prudent, Prudente : adverb. Prudemment.

The PARTICIPE PRESENT is invariable.

On a trouvé $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{cet homme} \\ \text{cette femme} \\ \text{ces hommes} \\ \text{ces femmes} \end{array} \right\}$ parlant, lisant, chantant.

When it is employed as a VERBAL ADJECTIVE, however, it ceases to be a participle, and must follow the same rule as other adjectives. [V. Note A on page 29.]

The difference between a present participle and a verbal adjective is simple to an Englishman, as he may always ascertain it by remembering whether, if the word were translated into English with the termination ...ing, it would have to come before, or after the noun. If before, it is an adjective: if after, it is a participle.

EXAMPLES

PRESENT PARTICIPLE.

Cet homme est bon, OBLIGEANT tout le monde quand il en trouve l'occasion.

Cette femme est bonne, OBLIGEANT tout le monde quand elle le peut.

(That is, This man, or this woman obliges everyone. It is merely the verb expressed in another way.)

VERBAL ADJECTIVE.

C'est un homme obligeant
C'est une femme obligeante
Ce sont des personnes obligeantes

In each of these sentences "obligeant" is variable, because it is used as an adjective to describe the quality or character of its subject, but not the action of 'To oblige.'

(That is, He is an obliging man.
She is an obliging woman.
They are obliging people.)

The PARTICIPE PASSÉ must agree in gender and number:—

[A] With the SUBJECT when employed with ÊTRE [except in reflective verbs.]

[B] With the OBJECT when employed with AVOIR [or in REFLECTIVE VERBS with Être, which takes the place of Avoir] IF THE OBJECT BE BOTH DIRECT and placed BEFORE THE PARTICIPLE.

Under all other circumstances it is INVARIABLE.

EXAMPLES WITH ÊTRE.

La loi est supprimée | Elle est aimée | Mes frères sont venus | Elles sont parties

Variable,

because the DIRECT OBJECT is BEFORE the participle.

WITH AVOIR.

Les livres que j'ai lus.
Les personnes que j'ai vues.
La lettre que j'ai écrite.

WITH ÊTRE used for AVOIR.

Ma sœur s'est coupée.
Coupée fem. sing., because SE, which precedes it, is direct object [ma sœur a coupé elle.]

Nous NOUS sommes blessés en jouant.
Blessés masculine plural, because the second pronoun NOUS is the direct object [nous avons blessé nous.]

Invariable,

because the DIRECT OBJECT is AFTER the participle.

WITH AVOIR.

J'ai lu les livres.
J'ai vu les personnes.
J'ai écrit deux lettres.

WITH ÊTRE used for AVOIR.

Ma sœur s'est coupé le doigt.
Coupé invariable, because the direct object (doigt) is after the participle [ma sœur a coupé le doigt à elle.] The pronoun SE is indirect object.

Nous NOUS sommes donné un rendez-vous.
Donné invariable, because the direct object [un rendez-vous] comes after the participle. Nous is indirect object.

SHALL et WILL [pr. 'chal' et 'ouill,' bref.]

82.

Dans toute proposition principale, SHALL pour la première personne et WILL pour la deuxième et la troisième, indiquent simplement un temps futur, tandis que WILL pour la première personne et SHALL pour les deux autres annoncent une idée de volonté de la part de celui qui parle.

My master WILL carry his parcel himself.
Mon maître portera lui-même son paquet.

My man SHALL fetch your luggage.
Mon domestique ira chercher vos effets.

Dans les phrases interrogatives, la règle précédente est ordinairement prise en sens inverse, parce qu'il faut, dans la question, anticiper la forme de la réponse.

SHALL I go? SHALL he go?

car la réponse sera : Yes, you shall go : he shall go. Oui ou non, je veux que vous alliez, qu'il aille.

SHALL you see him? WILL you see him?

parce qu'on s'attend aux réponses :

I SHALL see him, J'irai le voir (simple futur.)
I WILL see him, J'irai le voir (je vous promets d'aller le voir.)

Dans les propositions incidentes, "Shall" à la deuxième et à la troisième personne indique un temps futur, en même temps que la volonté de celui qui parle.

The student who SHALL speak English best WILL gain the prize.
(ou, The student who speaks English best SHALL gain the prize.)
L'élève qui parlera le mieux anglais remportera le prix (indication de volonté.)

SHOULD et WOULD [pr. 'chould' et 'ouould,' bref.]

83.

SHOULD est la première personne de WOULD, quand il s'agit de marquer le conditionnel simple (c.-à.-d. sans idée de devoir.)

I, WE SHOULD Thou wouldst He, you, they would	} die, if ... be fined like to be glad be sorry	(nous, etc.)	{ mourrions si ... serions mis à l'amende aimerions à ... serions heureux de ... regretterions, serions fâchés
---	---	---------------	---

En tout autre cas Should et Would sont réguliers. Par exemple :

I, WE SHOULD Thou shouldst He, you, they should	} signifie que (je, tu, il) nous sommes d'avis que ..., Notre jugement (opinion) nous porte à ..., incline à ..., nous devrions ...
I, ou WE WOULD Thou wouldst He, you, they would	} advise him to go ... c.-à.-d. naturellement, sans doute. Je lui conseillerais d'y aller, Vous lui conseilleriez d'y aller.

EXAMPLES of the Verb CAN.

84.

I will do it if I can, Je le ferai, si je puis. | I cannot, [fam. I can't] Je ne puis pas.

I will do what I can, Je ferai ce que je pourrai : je ferai tout mon possible.

How can you tell? Comment le savez-vous?

It is more than I can tell, C'est ce que je ne sais pas.

Nobody can tell, Personne n'en sait rien.

I can find him nowhere, Je ne puis le trouver nulle part.

Make all haste you can, Faites toute la diligence possible.

He is as like him as can be, Il lui ressemble tout à fait.

He is sure he can do it, Il est sûr de pouvoir le faire.

As sure as can be, De la façon la plus certaine : indubitablement.

As soon as can be, Aussi tôt que possible.

He is as bad as can be, Il est aussi méchant qu'on puisse l'être : on ne saurait être plus méchant.

You cannot but know it, Vous ne pouvez pas l'ignorer.

Cannot you hold your tongue? Ne sauriez-vous vous taire?

One cannot tell which way it will go. On ne sait pas quelle en sera l'issue.

I cannot but laugh when I see him, Je ne puis m'empêcher de rire quand je le vois.

It cannot be, Cela ne peut pas être.

No. 85. FRENCH, ENGLISH, AMERICAN, AND GERMAN

The table of standard equivalent values here given has been entirely modified by the Great War.

MONEY

Variations in the rates of exchange are frequent and must be reckoned as they arise from day to day.

For round sums, reckon 100 francs = £4
1000 " = £40
2500 " = £100

A milliard is 1000 millions of francs.
(i.e., £40,000,000 sterling, or 192,000,000 dollars)

For EQUIVALENT PRICES, V. Tables 87, 89, etc.

£1 = 20 shillings
1 shilling = 12 pence
1 franc = 100 centimes
1 mark = 100 pfennige
4 pf. = 5 centimes
1 dollar = 100 cents.

STANDARD OF CALCULATION.
£1 English = 25 francs French.
" " = 4 dollars 80 cents American.
Variations in exchange must be reckoned separately.
See remarks at head of table.

For hectolitres par hectare equalling bushels per acre, V. Table 89.
COMPARATIVE CROPS, at Table 89.

For kilos. par hectolitre equaling lbs. per bushel, add one-fourth to the number of pounds.

For lbs. per bushel equalling kilos. par hectolitre, deduct one-fifth from the number of pounds. Thus, 50 lbs. per bush. = 40 kilos. par hectolitre, etc.

FAIRE

Faire v. (Table 38) to make : to do : to be : to have : to get : to
 [In Faisant, Faisable, Faisons, Faisiez, Faiseur, pronounce ai as e : 'Fezan,' etc.]

Ce verbe est d'une application si étendue et si variée en français qu'il donne lieu dans sa traduction à plus d'erreurs que n'importe quel autre mot. Dans le but d'aider le lecteur français à se familiariser avec les idiotismes anglais qui sont nécessaires pour le traduire, l'auteur a cru devoir donner des explications plus détaillées qu'elles ne le sont d'ordinaire dans un dictionnaire de ce genre.

Au premier paragraphe on trouvera ce mot employé dans le sens général rendu en anglais par le verbe 'to make,' et au second dans le sens qui correspond au verbe anglais 'to do.' À la suite de chacun de ces paragraphes se trouvent des expressions dans lesquelles la signification du mot Faire est celle de 'to make' ou 'to do,' mais pour la traduction desquelles l'anglais exige un autre verbe : par exemple, 'Faire la conversation, To carry on a C,' 'Faire un poème, un livre, To write a poem, a book.'

Comme il est impossible, même dans un espace aussi étendu que celui qui est consacré ici à ce sujet, d'indiquer toutes les formes idiomatiques qui se rattachent à Faire, le lecteur fera bien de consulter dans le dictionnaire, le nom, ou le verbe, qui se trouve dans la locution à traduire [V. Aller, AMITIÉ, ANTICHAMBRE, Baisser CORVÉE, GAFFE, HONNEUR, ŒIL, PLUIE, etc.]

Il faut encore noter deux points importants :

1° Les Français emploient quelquefois Faire comme verbe auxiliaire dans des cas où son équivalent anglais n'est pas exprimé mais sous-entendu : par exemple, 'Il a fait faire [ou fait bâtir] une maison' doit se rendre par 'He has built a house,' et jamais 'He has had a house built.' Ceci a lieu avec plusieurs verbes, comme, Faire acheter, faire défendre, faire publier, faire voir, faire passer, To buy, to forbid (ou stop, ou get an injunction against), to publish, to show, to pass,—et dans les recettes de cuisine : 'Faites cuire deux œufs, Boil two eggs,' etc.

Faire, avec un verbe neutre, se remplace souvent en anglais par un verbe actifs sans auxiliaire, comme dans : Faire venir, To send for, to fetch, etc. | Faire sauter, To blow up (with gunpowder) | burst (à boiler) | to break (a bank) etc. | Faire entrer, To show ... in : to call in ... | Faire sortir, To show ... out : to call ... out | Faire monter, To show ... up : to call ... up |

Fasse le ciel, May Heaven grant ... !

2° Très fréquemment l'idiotisme est tout à fait changé dans la traduction, comme dans : Faire la BARBE à, To shave [fig] to outwit : to 'do' | Faire bonne MINE à, To receive ... well | Faire son DROIT', To read for the bar | Faire ses AFFAIRES, To get on : to be successful in business | — bien avec, To go [ou harmonize] well with | Faire l'EFFET' de, To look like [ou as if ...] La maison qui fait le COIN, The corner house

TON [te-m] tonneau: tonne [French inland merchandise, agricultural products, etc., etc., generally 'mille kilos.'] [English ton] 1015 kilos. [U. States 'short' ton] 907 kilos.

Note. A TON dead weight (2240 lbs.) equals 1016.048 kilos.: but in ordinary commercial usage 1015 is taken as the equivalent. As the French, however, only weigh 'standing beam,' while the English give the turn of the scale, this often causes a discrepancy between the invoiced and the actual weight of the cargo. 1015 kilos, being the real standard, it has been adopted in Table 90 (see beginning of the Dictionary) where equivalent weights and values for weight are given.
For TONS per ACRE = KILOS. par HECTARE, V. Table 89.
The French MILLIER, or TONNEAU de MER, is 1000 kilos.: or one and a half per cent. less than the English ton.
The TON REGISTER [auge officielle des navires] is 100 cubic feet: for steamers this is called gross register tonnage, from which deductions are made for engines, etc. to get the net register.
The TON MEASUREMENT in Great Britain and its colonies, and in the United States, is 40 cubic feet. The French TONNEAU de MER is 1.44 cubic metre = 50.85 English cubic feet. At Table 90 are given equivalent ships' freights, by English and by French ton measurement on this basis. In some parts of France, however, to avoid fractions, 1.50 cubic metre is taken as the tonneau au cubage.

DICTIONNAIRE GÉOGRAPHIQUE

AVEC LA PRONONCIATION.

Note. The definite article is not employed in French after the preposition 'En'; as, En France, En Amérique, etc.

The names of English Counties are masculine, and take the article in French: as. Dans le Lancashire, le Somersetshire, etc.

Cornwall may either be called Le Cornwall or La Cornouailles.

The gender of names of towns in French is often difficult to affirm. Speaking generally, such names ending in a mute syllable are feminine; and in other cases, masculine. In doubtful cases it is well to prefix the words la ville de ...

Most place-names ending in ...burg in English, become ...bourg in French.

ADDENDA

(Mots supplémentaires à noter)

As it is impossible to include all words and idiomatic phrases within the pages of this book, the following blanks are supplied to enable the user of the Dictionary to record any which may appear of sufficient interest or value to require noting. To facilitate reference, the abbreviation 'Add.' (for Addenda) together with the figure at the end of the line (below) on which the word or phrase is thus written, should be neatly inserted in the margin of the dictionary at the place where such word, &c., would appear in its alphabetical order. Thus a marginal note 'Add. 14' at the word 'Couper' would indicate that an additional rendering of Couper would be found at line 14, below. In the case of a new word, it is well to repeat the phrase in which it occurs, to leave no doubt as to its sense.
